ANTIMICROBIAL PRODUCTS

All 7 of the following antimicrobials have broad spectrum action against at least one group of microbe (bacteria, virus, parasite or fungi). There are resistant strains of microbes in these categories that may not be responsive. In general, these herbs are effective against the categories of microbes and conditions listed; the lists are not comprehensive.

Samento, Quina, Cumanda and Banderol are effective against Borrelia so patients may experience a Herxheimer reaction if they start at full dose. In most cases patients will not experience a Herxheimer reaction if they start at full dose of Takuna, Noni or Barberry.
